Meet the Women of the Court:

- Zubayda bint Ja'far: A prominent poet and patron of the arts, Zubayda played a key role in the development of Baghdad's literary scene.

- al-Khansa: A renowned poet who gained fame for her moving elegies, al-Khansa's work is considered among the finest examples of Arabic poetry.
- Umm Kulthum bint Muhammad: A respected historian and theologian, Umm Kulthum's writings provide valuable insights into the social and political dynamics of her time.
- Banu Musa: A family of three sisters known for their exceptional mathematical skills, the Banu Musa made significant contributions to geometry, algebra, and astronomy.
- Rabi'a al-Adawiyya: A Sufi mystic and poet, Rabi'a al-Adawiyya's teachings on love and spirituality continue to inspire people today.

These are just a few examples of the many women featured in "Women And The Court Of Baghdad." Through their stories, Dr. Jayyusi challenges the prevailing narrative of male dominance in Islamic history, demonstrating the vital role that women played in shaping the intellectual and cultural legacy of the Islamic world.

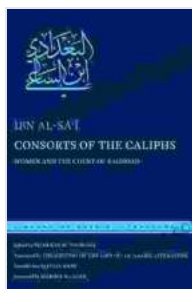

Beyond its historical significance, "Women And The Court Of Baghdad" also has important contemporary relevance. By highlighting the achievements of these remarkable women, Dr. Jayyusi inspires readers to reconsider the role of women in history and to challenge the stereotypes that often limit their opportunities today.
